Just moments from the historic landmarks and buzzing restaurants of English Harbour, seven-bedroom Boat House is a simple yet luxurious Leeward Island hideaway, with its own mooring. Built over three floors — which can each be independently accessed — it has those vital dazzling sea views from the living space, terraces and balconies. No Caribbean beaches can officially be called private, but you won't be sharing this one with the hordes.

The elegant district of Baixa is at the heart of downtown Lisbon, and Santa Justa 60, a period building on Rua Augusta, near the castle and river, has eight sensitively refurbished apartments. This one, the last that remains on sale, has two bedrooms and comes fully furnished — though you shouldn't let that stop you hitting the local design ateliers, which are hip enough to give Berlin a run for its money.
